NECROLOGY.

[illegible] Day, who died at Walla Walla Friday of [illegible], after a short illness, was the widow of [illegible] Day, who was killed in 1877 on Camas prairie, north Idaho, by the Nez Perces, as he was going for assistance to save others.

[illegible] N. Farrin, a most influential and respected citizen of Coos county, was drowned last [illegible] in the Coos river. He was alone in the boat when last seen, and was unable to swim. The body has been recovered. He was born in West Bath, Maine, and was [illegible] years. He came to this coast in 1858 by way of the isthmus, stopping to mine in California. He went to Coos bay in 1864, and married [illegible] Goodman, who survives him. He leaves [illegible] children.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative power of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

LAST NOVEMBER my little boy aged three years, fell against the stove while he was running and cut his head, and right after that it broke out all over his head, face and left ear. I had a good doctor, Dr. ——, to attend him but he got worse, and the doctor could not cure him. His whole head, face and left ear were in a fearful state and he suffered terribly. I caught the disease from him and it spread all over my face and neck and even got into my eyes. Nobody thought we would ever get better. If it [illegible] we were disfigured for life. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES and procured a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, a box of CUTICURA, and a cake of CUTICURA SOAP and used them constantly day and night. After using two bottles of RESOLVENT, four boxes of CUTICURA and four cakes of SOAP we are perfectly cured without a scar. My little boy is now like [illegible]. PHILIP FITTING,

WASHINGTON.

The House Rejects the Senate Subsidy Amendment.

THE RESULT LOUDLY APPLAUDED.

A Quiet Day in the Senate—Bill to Prevent Aliens from Acquiring Land—The Naval Appropriation Bill—Etc.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Holman of Indiana, from the committee on appropriations reported the executive legislative and judicial appropriation bill; referred to committee of the whole.

Breckinridge of Arkansas from the committee on ways and means called up the bill providing that for a period of five years no mackerel other than that known as Spanish mackerel caught between March 1 and June 1 shall be imported or landed in the United States. Consideration of the bill was postponed until to-morrow.

The house went into committee of the whole on the senate amendments to the postoffice appropriation bill. The amendment setting apart $10,000 of the appropriation for the delivery service for the establishment of a free delivery system in towns where it is not established was concurred in.

An amendment was rejected which authorizes the postmaster general to contract for inland and foreign steamboat service when it can be combined in one route. Also an amendment increasing by $50,000 the appropriation for the railway postal car service. An amendment was concurred in increasing to $[illegible] the appropriation for necessary and special facilities on trunk lines.

THE SUBSIDY AMENDMENT.

The foreign mail service amendment having been reached, Blount of Georgia moved non-concurrence in it.

Burrows of Michigan moved concurrence in the amendment with the following amendment thereto: Provided that not exceeding $400,000 of the moneys hereby appropriated shall be expended in the payment of existing American steamship lines for transportation of foreign mails according to schedules heretofore in force, and that as much of the balance as may be required shall be expended in increasing the frequency of the postal service of said steamship lines and in the establishment of postal service by American built and registered steamships between the United States and all ports of foreign countries herein named, not now connected with the United States by American steamship lines as the postmaster general may elect including Buenos Ayres and Montevideo. Burrows answered objections made to the senate amendment which he said gave the postmaster-general the same discretion in regard to the foreign service as he now possessed in regard to the coastwise and star route services. All talk about paying $450,000 to the Pacific Mail company was made to alarm the members. How these gentlemen could twist this provision into a subsidy he could not understand. The star route service could as well be called a subsidy.

McMILLAN'S VIEWS.

McMillan of Tennessee thought the efforts of the friends of the amendment to prove that the appropriation was not a subsidy had been futile. It was a subsidy in the broadest and boldest sense and the question for the house to determine was whether it was ready to enter upon the policy of paying gratuities to steamship companies. When reduced to the last analysis this amendment was an entering wedge to a system which could work extravagance and corruption only.

Adams, of New York—Did you vote for the river and harbor bill?

McMillan—Yes, and I would do it again. I notice that everything that goes to High Bridge is satisfactory to the gentleman and everything that goes elsewhere is unsatisfactory to him. This is a policy on which we should not enter. I glory in American institutions on account of their purity. If it paid better to work on the ocean than on land the people of the United States with their enterprise, energy and intelligence would navigate the ocean.

Goff of West Virginia, maintained that by paying fair wages for labor rendered to the government the government could have a merchant marine and show that it was endeavoring to extend American commerce.

THE AMENDMENT REJECTED.

After further debate the committee of the whole rejected, 85 to 1[illegible], Burrows's amendment to the senate amendment to the postoffice bill. As this was regarded as a test vote on the amendment [illegible] the result was greeted with cheers by the democratic side.

The committee then non-concurred in the senate $800,000 amendment and reported its action to the house.

The house concurred by more than two-thirds [illegible] of the action of the committee in rejecting the so-called subsidy amendment to the postoffice bill adopted by the senate.

The vote confirming the action of the committee on foreign mail service was yeas 179, nays 80. The announcement of the result was greeted with a round of applause from the democratic side. The bill and the amendments will now be sent to the senate and then go to a conference committee. The house then adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—In the senate to-day Manderson reported favorably, from the committee on military affairs, the bill to authorize the Bismarck & Northern railroad company to build its road across Fort Russell and Fort Laramie military reservations. On motion of Manderson the bill was taken up.

On motion of Edmunds it was so amended as to provide that if the rights conferred were not exercised and the road was not built within three years the privilege granted by the bill shall cease and terminate. The bill then passed.

The Staten Island bridge bill was then laid before the senate and McPherson resumed his speech against the bill as reported and in support of his amendment providing for a tunnel instead of a bridge.

After considerable debate on the Staten Island bridge bill an amendment offered by Vest was agreed to authorizing the secretary of war if he should deem any alteration of the bridge necessary or entire removal of the bridge necessary to avoid obstruction to commerce, to order alteration or removal at the expense of the owners, and if the bridge be not finished within two years the right to build shall cease.

McPherson's amendment for a tunnel instead of a bridge was rejected—yeas 9, nays 40. Senators voting in the affirmative were Messrs. Bowen, Harris, McPherson, Plumb and Sewell.

Voorhees as a Western man would not vote to shut out railroad competition from the West to the ocean. He thought the attempt of the railroad company to get to New York city a move which could only result in advantage to the West and Pacific states.

After further debate, and voting down some amendments the bill was passed by a viva voce vote as reported from the committee with the addition of Vest's amendment.

The bankruptcy bill was then laid before the senate [illegible] the senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

THE VITICULTURAL CONVENTION.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—At to-day's session of the National Viticultural convention a number of interesting statements and exhibitions were made by persons connected with the agricultural bureau. Commissioner Coleman stated that samples of all the exhibits made would be desired by the department for careful analytical work and study.

A paper on "American Grapes" by T. M. Munson, vice president of the Pomological society of Texas was read and an interesting discussion followed. A paper by Hon. Samuel Miller, of Missouri, on "How to multiply new varieties and bring them to early fruiting" was then read; also one by Prof. Scribner of the agricultural bureau on "Downy mildew and black rot." This paper opened a wide range for discussion most important to the convention, the professor stating that inasmuch as the search for remedies for these diseases was of vital interest to all producers, the department would continue to give special attention to the [illegible]. A long discussion followed on the subject of grafting vines and the influence of pruning upon the fruit product. Prof. Hussman of [illegible] university of Missouri was one of the principal speakers.

The [illegible] delegates visited Masonic temple this evening to see the exhibits of California wines, raisins and [illegible] and the concurrent judgment was most favorable as to the quality of the samples produced.

TO PREVENT ALIENS FROM ACQUIRING LANDS.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Representative Payson of Illinois has prepared a report on the bill to prevent aliens from acquiring real estate in territories of the United States. The report says the bill has for its basis the proposition that American soil should be owned by Americans so far as congress can control it. The committee on public lands in this congress as in the last is thoroughly wedded to the policy of so administering our public land system that the agricultural lands of the nation shall be parted with without cost to be held in small tracts by small settlers only for the purpose of cultivation by the owner securing thereby the thrift of the citizen and economy in his management with ownership always stimulated. This policy it is hoped will become a national one. The bill which the report accompanies proposes that no alien or foreigner who has not declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States nor any corporation, one tenth of whose stock is owned or controlled by aliens or foreigners shall have a right to acquire real estate in any of the territories of the United States. The bill has been agreed to by the committee and will probably be reported some day this week.

COMMITTEE NOTES.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The house committee on commerce to-day instructed the chairman to report the carrying clause of the Cullom interstate commerce bill with the provisions of the Reagan bill as an amendment in place of the provisions of the Cullom bill. This was done for the purpose of bringing both bills fully before the house.

The senate committee on commerce will continue its daily meetings having permission to sit during the sessions of the senate to consider the river and harbor bill. It has concluded to make a preliminary study of the measure as it came from the house item by item before deciding upon anything and its members have decided not to make any disclosures regarding the committee's work until the preliminary examination shall be completed.

The house committee on judiciary to-day decided to report adversely on various amendments to the constitution proposing that senators, postmasters and judges shall be elected by vote by the people.

Senator Dawes to-day reported favorably from the committee on Indian affairs bills granting to railroads the right of way through an Indian reservation in Northern Montana and appropriating $50,000 for removal of the Eastern Cherokee Indians to Indian territory.

THE FISHERIES TROUBLES.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Congressman Boutelle called at the state department this morning with a private telegram received by him reporting the refusal of the customs authorities at Digby to [illegible] bait and fancy herring for any purpose whatever. Mr. Boutelle was told that the department had no [illegible] official information of this matter, but would make inquiry.

It was stated to-day [illegible] the cabinet [illegible] consideration of the [illegible] Action was postponed [illegible] awaiting a report of more definite and detailed information from Consul-General Phelan at Halifax in regard to the seizure of the American vessels Adams and Doughty.

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The committee on naval affairs to-day substantially completed the naval appropriation bill and it will probably be reported to the house to-morrow. The bill appropriates about $[illegible],000. The estimates submitted by the navy department contemplate an expenditure of $[illegible]. The appropriation for the current fiscal year is $15,[illegible]. The striking discrepancy apparent between the appropriation for next year and the estimates of the department is explained by the fact that all of the items included in the estimates for new construction, aggregating $[illegible], are omitted from the appropriation bill as they form the subject of a special bill for new naval establishment already reported by the committee.

WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

PORTLAND, May 20, 1886.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I am pleased to see our able superintendent of press work come to the front this morning with explanations and wise logic concerning that much talked-of subject "Women at the polls." Now, it is not strange that people of equal intelligence will see things from different standpoints, for such has been the case from the beginning of time. Therefore we are not surprised that this one of the purest motives of the W. C. T. U. should be picked to pieces and shoved up to say the least, in garments most objectionable. We are admonished by one not to go to the polls as suppliants as that would be degrading to our dignity and self respect. My friends, no person ever stultified his manhood or injured his reputation by doing even the most disagreeable work for the good of humanity. Is it pleasant, and is it foolish for our officers of the social purity department to go down into the dens of iniquity and vice and there plead with depravity in its vilest forms? Was it pleasant and was it foolish for the crusaders to begin this great work where they did, in the lowest and vilest saloons in the land? That great organization the W. C. T. U. which to-day numbers 100,000 earnest and devoted women, is the first born of that crusade of fourteen years ago. The prohibition party of to-day which is shedding light upon our nation is the grandchild of this same crusade movement. We are accused of advocating this move in the hope of influencing voters by petty little feminine wiles. And also that we expect to buy votes with lemonade and buttonhole bouquets. Now nothing could be more foreign to our intention than this. We all know that it is not only right but the duty of good men to go and work at the polls. Then why should not women be encouraged to do likewise? Where it is respectable for men to go, it should be respectable for women to go. It has been the custom for centuries in great and small undertakings, especially when the social element entered into the work to provide some form of refreshment or beverage by which the parties would pledge themselves to the work under consideration. It has been and is still the custom of our native Americans to have ready the pipe of peace that it may be passed around as a sacred pledge of friendship. Alcoholic drinks have been used for generations as a pledge of fidelity and friendship in all social gatherings. This custom has become so fixed upon us that but few persons even church members are brave enough to give a dinner or marriage supper without champagne and other wines. "I do not believe in it myself but then you know custom demands it." Now the W. C. T. U. does not object to pledges, in fact we advocate pledges, but we are particular as to the contents of the glass in which the pledge is taken and sealed. We would prefer that the pledge be taken with [illegible] or sparkling water. We do not however object to the addition of a spoonful of sugar and few drops of lemon juice for they are healthful and harmless. And furthermore we do have faith in men to believe that if they pledge themselves to vote for a temperance man or for our prohibition ticket that they will not forget their promise before they reach the ballot box. Last year during the long hot summer the W. C. T. U. of Portland kept a barrel of cold ice water in front of the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. to prevent men from frequenting beer halls. One gentleman said he was sure that this was a loss of at least $5.0 a day to the saloon keepers of Portland. Said he: "I was in the habit of spending 20 to 40 cents per day for beer, not that I cared for beer but just to keep cooled off." Again the temperance people all over the state are taking up subscriptions for temperance literature and spreading it wherever we think we can influence votes. And is this not legitimate? No my friends, we are not proposing to buy votes, not even with flowers and lemonade. And should they be provided I can see no objection for they are innocent and can do no harm. I am sure they will not be accused of robbing any man of his senses or sending him home reeling drunk from the polls. Another very important reason why we should go to the polls next June is that we have a lady candidate on the ticket whom we are very anxious to see elected. Should any woman in Portland be ashamed to go to the polls and ask any man to vote for Mrs. Alice Clawson Gove for school superintendent?

I hope to see hundreds of the lady friends at the polls asking votes for her. Any lady has the right and privilege to go to the polls. I have no fear but the ladies can and will conduct themselves with as much propriety at the polls as they do in the streets of Portland.

MRS. OWENS-ADAIR, M. D.

A STATEMENT.

PORTLAND, May 20.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A person told me on yesterday in presence of two gentlemen that he intended to charge me through the newspapers with renting two rooms in the building on the southeast corner of Ash and First streets in this city, to saloon keepers. I therefore state the facts now lest such charge be preferred so near to the day of election as to deprive me of the opportunity. On November 21, 1885, when I was about to remove temporarily to California on account of the health of my family I leased that building for five years to Mr. Robert Bell, of this city. Mr. Fred Clarke negotiated, witnessed and took the acknowledgment to the lease, and it is in duplicate and held by me subject to public inspection. Mr. Bell sublet the portion of the building in which those two rooms are situated to Mr. A. C. Walling, who informed me a few days since that he had leased or rented the rooms to the present occupants of them. It was done without my knowledge or consent and without any right upon my part to object, having no control over the matter. These are the facts and the above named gentlemen are my witnesses. When the prohibitionists [illegible] again two years hence [illegible]

The Union Pacific in Montana.

A party of Union Pacific surveyors says the Anaconda (Montana) Review, left here May 14 and went to Missoula by rail. This will start a survey from near that point and will run up the Bitter Root river to a point near its head. Then the line will cross the divide into the Big Hole and down the Big Hole to the head of the canyon, striking the main line of the Utah & Northern at a point near Lavell which is the first station this side of Melrose. Incidentally another line will probably be run by this party from some point on this projected line to and down the Columbia river.

The object of the putting in of this line is to get hold of the timber on the Bitter Root which is [illegible] known to be the finest in the Northwest. The Union Pacific has long had its eye on this country and is now going to close its hold on this timber district. The present party will trace the lines to the [illegible] and it will take all season to get the line ready and the construction work will probably be done this season.

More Damaging Evidence against Brooks, alias Maxwell.

SENTENCE OF ALDERMAN JAEHNE.

A Fishing Schooner Armed at Boston—A Man of War Missing—Anarchistic Utterances—The Louisville Races.

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—As the Maxwell-Preller trial progresses the interest in the prisoner and his probable fate increases. Several prominent clergymen were present at the trial this morning, as were also a large number of ladies and there was no [illegible] room at the doors.

[illegible] Maxwell then asked him if he could recognize him then if he had known him [illegible] said such a thing would be impossible and Maxwell seemed pleased at this answer. Prisoner talked [illegible] all the time he was at the ship [illegible] stories about himself [illegible] he was going to the country for a day or two [illegible] return.

TESTIMONY OF THE TICKET AGENT.

Samuel Hughes, ticket agent for the [illegible] testified that prisoner [illegible] a ticket to San Francisco April [illegible] his own [illegible] and that of H. M. Brooks. [illegible] inquiry as to the price of the ticket [illegible] he drew forth a large roll of bills of large denominations.

George Hess, a pawnbroker, met prisoner on the day [illegible] April. Prisoner wanted to borrow [illegible] on watch chain. Witness refused [illegible] soon after prisoner tried to sell other trivial articles, saying he must have money. On Monday after Easter Sunday prisoner called again and purchased a [illegible] for $8 and a set of diamonds, paying for them with a $100 bill which he selected from a roll of several of the same denomination. Witness noticed nothing unusual in prisoner's talk.

A TRUNK MAKER'S TESTIMONY.

Frederick Bleeser, trunk maker, testified that prisoner had bought from him a canvas-covered trunk and a packing case on Monday April 5. In paying for them he exhibited a large roll of bills, mostly of large denominations. Later in the day he returned to the store and bought two large trunk straps. The straps taken from around the trunk in which Preller's body was found were identified as those sold to prisoner. Witness was shown two trunk boards found in the packing case and asked if they were parts of the tray. He said they were not, but were pieces of the top of another trunk. The packing case had no tray. The trunk in which Preller's body was found was brought before witness who was asked to tell as an expert whether the tray had ever belonged to it.

Mr. Fauntleroy, counsel for the defense, objected to expert testimony but his objection was overruled and witness answered that it was.

Exception was then taken to the ruling. The point was an important one as the tray and particles were found in the packing case.

[illegible] from a Southern hotel porter recognized the trunks bought from Bleeser as those he had carried to prisoner's room on the same day they were bought. When he entered the rooms a zinc trunk was in the middle of the floor and clothes were scattered about and heaped in piles. He lifted one end of the zinc trunk to see if it was packed and thought it weighed 100 or 150 [illegible] a heavy weight for a trunk of that size. Witness at prisoner's order carried down the canvas covered trunk, leaving the others. Maxwell said he would be back in a day or two.

Louis Dunn, hat dealer, testified that he had sold Maxwell a hat on Easter Monday. Maxwell wanted one to make him look like a Yankee, and was very nervous.

THE DRUGGIST'S TESTIMONY.

J. A. W. Fernow, druggist, testified that Maxwell came into his store on several occasions. About 11 P. M. on Easter Sunday he came into the store and purchased four ounces of chloroform and some carbolic acid, and after a little chat he went away. About 5 P. M. he returned and asked for another four ounces of chloroform. Witness had only about [illegible] and [illegible] only two ounces. Defendant objected to this, saying he wanted four ounces or all witness had, but he took two ounces and [illegible] the label from the bottle with the remark that he being a doctor labels were not necessary. He left the store in great haste. He had previously stated that he was in a great hurry and had insisted that he should be waited on quickly.

Upon cross-examination witness stated that when defendant came to the store the second time he said he had accidentally knocked over the first bottle of chloroform and spilled the contents and wanted another supply as quickly as possible. He did not appear to be excited, only in a hurry. Adjourned until to-morrow.

JAEHNE SENTENCED.

The Judge Fixes the Penalty at Nine Years and Ten Months in State Prison.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The court of oyer and terminer was filled this morning with spectators to hear Judge Barrett pronounce sentence upon Alderman Jaehne, convicted of bribery in connection with the Broadway railroad franchise. Jaehne was in attendance, guarded by the sheriff. His face looked pale and his eyes had a weary look. After the judge had taken his seat the district attorney moved for sentence to be passed on the prisoner.

Gen. Pryor of Jaehne's counsel made a motion for an arrest of judgment upon the following grounds: First that the indictment was insufficient in substance, second that the count in the indictment upon which the verdict was returned was insufficient to sustain the verdict, and third because in law there can be no judgment upon an indictment and verdict. Counsel moved for a new trial upon two grounds: the misdirection of the jury in matters of law and because the verdict was contrary to law and against the evidence. The motions were both denied. Counsel then took exception to the denial of each motion.

Jaehne then stood up for sentence and in reply to the usual questions of the clerk gave his age as [illegible] and residence as [illegible] Second street. He said that he had learned the jewelry trade. He was asked what he had to say why judgment should not be pronounced against him according to law. He made no reply but kept his eyes fixed [illegible] in front of him. Judge Barrett then sentenced the prisoner to nine years and ten months in the state prison.

THE JUDGE'S REMARKS.

He said prisoner had been convicted by a fair jury, that he had every advantage a defendant could have and able counsel. He had had the services of two of the most eminent members of the bar, one noted for his power and force and another gentleman of equal ability whose services were ever ready at the command of the poor, unfortunate and oppressed. The case was a sad one. It was a humiliating spectacle that a man who was elected to a public office in this city should have so grossly betrayed his trust as prisoner had. It was humiliating to the people of the city, state and country that such a practice should be presented in a free government as a person betraying his trust as prisoner had. It was sad to see a man with advantages in the position which he now was that could stand unmoved at the spectacle of his weeping wife and broken hearted mother, but the saddest thing of all about his case was the doubt which pervaded many good and honest minds of his conviction. There was no doubt of his guilt. It was universally conceded when the evidence was in that the case against him was clear, convincing and overwhelming. The first doubt seemed to have arisen from a lack of faith in the efficiency of our jury system, the zeal of our public prosecutor and the efficiency of our police. These doubts would be dispelled by his conviction. It taught an important lesson that a majority of our people [illegible]

[illegible] at this point that your offense was not [illegible] bribery but [illegible] perjury [illegible] furtherance of a stupendous [illegible] transaction. Have the people of this city ceased to remember the fate [illegible] of Crowley, of Fish and [illegible] Ward. The people are not all [illegible]. According to the testimony in your case the two honest men in the board were sneered at by you as dudes.

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.

The judge then passed sentence upon the prisoner. Lawyer Newcombe on a bill [illegible] made by [illegible] and Jaehne containing [illegible] points raised during the trial and exceptions taken secured from Judge Daniels a temporary stay of proceedings and an order to show cause why the stay should not be permanent. [illegible] argument will be heard at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Jaehne is in the custody of the warden, who assigned him to cell No. 11, on the third tier. According to remission made for good conduct he will actually have to serve six years four months and eleven days.

Hearing on the way of the seizure of the Portland schooner by Canadians the owners of the vessel decided that something must be done to protect their property. The Herrick accordingly put into Boston harbor and her captain went ashore. If we are to put an end to the capitalist we must dash to pieces his instrument of power—the state. How the state is to be dashed to pieces is described by a communication from one of Most's men: [illegible] the work against New York—[illegible] those noble persons in our cause the brave bomb throwers of Chicago, says the writer, [illegible] and surest ally dynamite will surely not leave you in the lurch. Heated Debate in the Commons Over an Irish Bill.

THE MENACE OF DISSOLUTION

Resignation of the Greek Ministry—Smallpox at Montreal—Hanlan and Beach—News from China and Japan

LONDON, May 20.—The house of commons this evening after a heated debate rejected, by a vote of 230 to 1[illegible], the Dublin [illegible] bill as elaborated by the committee which consisted of four English members. The bill increased the powers of a private gas company, whereas the municipal authorities wish to take the task of lighting the town into their own hands in order to [illegible] as economical as possible.

In the course of the debate Mr. Sexton said that Irish private business ought to be suspended until the home rule question had been settled, and that at any rate the bill under consideration ought to be dealt with by a committee of Irishmen instead of Englishmen.

Lord John Manners, conservative, said that the debate showed the temper with which business would be conducted in the Irish parliament.

Mr. Dillon retorted that the Irish parliament would at least be composed of men who knew where Dublin is situated.

The [illegible] of the [illegible] were [illegible] with loud cheers by the Irish members.

THE MENACE OF DISSOLUTION.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Cable from London to the [illegible]: Gladstone has [illegible] varied his tactics and resolved to protract the home rule debate through the whole of next week. The menace of dissolution of parliament if the bill should be [illegible] is believed to have had some effect upon members and their constituents. To [illegible] the dissolution is distasteful but Gladstone is confident of his strength in the country and holds dissolution to be the inevitable result of defeat of the second reading. Several of his colleagues are known to disagree with him but in this point Gladstone means to have his own way. The situation is supposed to be slightly less hopeless from a ministerial view since Monday. Three liberals who were present at Chamberlain's meeting last week have returned to Gladstone and there are hopes that others may do likewise. The Parnellites openly give out that if home rule now be refused the work of obstruction in the house of commons will be resumed, not a shilling of rent will be paid in Ireland and boycotting will be practiced on a greater scale than ever and in new subtler and more deadly forms.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY MAY 21, 1886.

A PATTERN AND A DEMONSTRATION.

At La Camas, on the Columbia river, there is a demonstration of the development which grows out of manufacturing enterprise, particularly interesting at this time when the industry of the country is awaiting organization. La Camas, being purely a factory town, illustrates better than any other place in the country, the various and substantial advantages which spring from enterprises which take hold of the raw materials of the country and by application of labor turn them into merchandise. The future of the country depends largely upon the energy with which this thing is done at [illegible]. It is fortunate to have at hand a pattern and a demonstration so encouraging to enterprise as that offered at La Camas.

The visitor to La Camas finds three general enterprises, a waterpower company which owns the town site and a fine power and whose business it is to sell or lease factory sites and lease power, a paper mill and a sawmill. The whole investment in these three general enterprises is within $200,000. The waterpower company has been at work for four years, most of the time employing a great number of laborers. Its work now is little more than that of maintenance, so its force is comparatively small. But it has spent great amounts of money for labor, machinery and materials of various kinds. The paper mill is the next largest enterprise. It employs about one hundred persons directly. It consumes a vast amount of fuel bought from woodsmen near at hand. It consumes also large quantities of native cottonwood, half a score of men being employed continuously in getting out this wood and transporting it to the mill. Previous to the establishment of this mill cottonwood timber was absolutely worthless, a positive encumbrance. The mill consumes many tons of straw bought from farmers near at hand. This, too, was worthless before the mill was set up. The lime used in bleaching the straw and in the other processes of the mill is reduced from lime rock procured in Southern Oregon, a squad of men finding employment in this department of supply. A steamboat with its corps of men is employed in taking to the mill supplies of one kind or another and in carrying its product to market at Portland. Here, the paper company rents dock room, office room, store room and employs several persons as porters and clerks.

The La Camas saw mill is a smaller enterprise than the paper mill, but it gives employment directly to a large number of persons. Twenty-five mill workers are employed and double their number are engaged in cutting, hauling and booming logs, and in getting the product into market. Just at this time the mill has on hand a large special contract and is employing a double force—in one capacity or another about 150 men.

These enterprises have built up the town of La Camas, which started three years ago, now has a population of seven or eight hundred. Stores, blacksmith shops, a grist mill—all the industries which attend upon a thriving community—are employed with numerous workmen, clerks, etc. The agricultural country back from the river finds in this new community a market for the products of its fields, orchards and gardens and though long settled is just now, with its new opportunities, beginning to be prosperous. In one way or another no less than five thousand persons are directly benefited by these enterprises at La Camas. Not only do they make local prosperity but they stimulate the business pulse of the whole country.

PLAIN ENGLISH

The statesmen of the old South were always devout believers in orthodox Christianity, and were passionately fond of classical quotations in public discourse. They believed that as Paul ~~sent back Onesimus, so a Christian North ought~~ to send back a fugitive slave, and they were never tired of "gilding a crime against human nature with a Greek anecdote or Latin aphorism," as Phillips said of Edward Everett, when that eloquent dough-face tried to disperse the antislavery agitators by pointing at them with his derisive finger. It sounded like a voice from the kingdom of souls to hear Jeff Davis the other day discharge at Gen. Gordon that worm eaten classical chestnut and compliment, "Quorum magna pars fui." The old South always loved to sport its little Latin, but the North has learned to drop classic quotations as a rule from its spoken or written popular discourse, and Northern statesmen who are also scholars seldom lard their lean thought with Latin or Greek quotation. Newspapers at the North seldom nowadays place Latin or Greek mottoes at the head of their columns. Even cemeteries do not furnish as much as formerly the spectacle of a monument to English virtue or valor inscribed with Latin legends. The change is complimentary to the increasing good sense of the American public. Why should our English speaking and English writing people write in Latin in memory of patriot dead the legend, "Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori," when we can say in simple English, 'It is sweet and decent to die for the flag?' There is no literature like that of our English speaking race. It is a confession of ignorance of our own language when we fail to find in our English speech the identical or at least equivalent expression for the [illegible] of Greece and Rome. [illegible] in honor of English arms or English [illegible] than in the fine simplicity of speech which all the great masters of English [illegible] well the speech [illegible] speech of the [illegible] passion and [illegible] of love [illegible] enough to [illegible] higher thoughts and [illegible] English speech that [illegible] of beautiful thought [illegible] the English Bible [illegible] the ore of other lands and [illegible] its [illegible] something out its gold.

H. W. S.

It is said that [illegible] of THE OREGONIAN is particularly [illegible] to the brethren of the ring. Well [illegible] we are hard to please. You all said only a little while ago that you would have no more dictation from THE OREGONIAN, that THE OREGONIAN wouldn't be permitted to 'interfere' further with 'the party,' that the paper had been 'killed,' and you were glad of it. Now 'gents,' self respecting people are not in the habit of pushing themselves into vulgar, rude and snobbish company where they are treated with indignity and where they have been told they are not wanted. Just go your ways, "gents,"—but let us say right here that it would look better for you to stop your loud complaint that THE OREGONIAN is not exerting itself in your behalf, coupled as the complaint invariably is with the complacent remark that the paper "has no influence." Let us drop a hint here, in the shape of a suggestion that the election returns, if this thing goes on, may show that the ring managers and organs have been giving attention to THE OREGONIAN that might better have been devoted to 'the ticket.'

A well-known Portland grain merchant who has just returned from a six weeks' trip in the Columbia river basin, declares that the sowing of this year is even greater than last and that if all goes well the surplus this fall will go over that of last season. The weather east of the mountains this spring has been perfect. While the rains have been abundant, there has been sufficient fair weather to give time for plowing and seeding. The spring sowing is said to be unusually large and fields are in fine condition. In Western Oregon spring operations have been delayed by the late rains. But throughout the valley plowing and sowing is now going on. There is a good deal of risk in planting this late in the season. Should the early summer be moist, [illegible] well enough; but a dry summer will wither it to nothing.

THE ARCTIC WILL O' THE WISP

Lieut. Greely, in a recent forecast of future Arctic explorations, assumed that such bootless expeditions would not be tried again within the present century. Nevertheless, Engineer Peary, of the United States navy, is reported as already on his way to Disco bay, whence, with a party of natives, he will try to cross Greenland and make his way to the pole. William H. Gilder, Lieut. Schwatka's companion in King William's land, is also reported as about to organize another Arctic expedition. He proposes to penetrate by next spring to Fort Conger, Greely's original station, and make a dash at the pole. His companions will be natives, and the only decent feature we see about this wild, useless project is that no intelligent, useful lives are likely to be lost except that of Mr. Gilder, who is reputed to be fit for a better fate than adding his name to the long line of martyrs to the delusive and destructive pursuit of the unsolved secrets of the Arctic circle. From Barentz down to Greely, nothing has been accomplished commensurate with the wicked waste of life the "will o' the wisp" of Arctic discovery has cost the world. McClure proved that there was a northwest passage, but it was worthless as a commercial sea route. And yet, in a wild goose chase to establish this absolutely worthless fact, Sir John Franklin, a great and good man, miserably perished. Franklin had been the able governor of Australia, a man of great administrative ability, humanity and versatility. An able seaman, a wise executive, an enlightened philanthropist, it was as absurd for him to lose his noble life wandering dismally in Arctic wastes, as it was for Hamilton to face the pistol of Burr. Every Arctic navigator—Parry, Beechey, Franklin, Rae, McClintock, McClure, Kane, Hayes, Hall, Schwatka, De Long and Greely, stand for the same gloomy story of severe suffering, with no results worth the purchase at the cost of life and hardship to the gallant men composing these expeditions. The world does not know any more about the insoluble mystery of the Arctic sea to-day than it knew after Martin Frobisher's expedition three hundred years ago, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; nor have we penetrated much nearer the pole than did that daring navigator. What has the world won out of this terrible sacrifice of these superior spirits? Nothing only the knowledge that Franklin and De Long met suffering, sickness and death by cold and starvation with an heroic fortitude that would have counted nobly in some of those fine enterprises of great pith and moment to the world that often perish still born, or lead a languishing life for the lack of this very leadership that was so stupidly spent within the frozen zone. The man who dies as Livingstone died, the man who dares as Stanley dared when he conquered the mystery of the Congo basin, is a public benefactor, because he acts in regions where the commerce and Christian civilization of the world can utilize the conquest long after the death of the conqueror; but the record of 400 years has proved that Arctic exploration is as indefensible on the score of utility to commerce or science as walking across Niagara on a tight-rope or trying to shoot the rapids below suspension bridge. Whether you survive or perish the race reaps nothing from your desperate courage or your mournful death. You are no more moral or material consequence to the world than if you broke your neck in a flying trapeze feat or in a hurdle race. We paid an awful price for Arctic adventure when we sent the pride and nerve of our navy, in the person of De Long, to solve a secret that was actually worthless to the world had he won it. Every line of that inexpressibly pathetic diary of De Long, eloquent with heroic endurance of a horrible fate, made us curse the stupidity that strands a line of battle ship in a ditch that sends a hero in quest of a flock of bats only to see him perish, like a prisoner, walled out from light and heat and food. This Arctic folly is burned out with most sane persons, and we hope the projectors of this impending Arctic adventure will be suffered to pay their own expenses both ways to the "open polar sea," and to get out the way they get in as best they can. Gallant men deserve to be utilized, not wasted in feats of useless daring, fruitless endurance and barren suffering. Let us leave the open polar sea to be solved by the whalers. Yankee avarice would follow a whale in to the open polar sea, and lash him to the pole, if there was any open water, but we suspect the ice wall is impregnable and impenetrable enough, so that not even a greedy whaler will ever be saluted as "the first that ever burst into that silent sea."

IRELAND'S RELATIONS WITH ENGLAND

The New York Sun, the ablest advocate of the cause of Ireland in America, long ago counseled the Irish nationalist party to favor the system of inter-relation between the state and federal governments, exemplified in our own confederation, rather than the type of legislative independence exhibited in Canada," for the reason that in its judgment the American system would be much more easily obtained from parliament under the existing circumstances. The Sun believes in a state legislature at Dublin, but thinks that as a guarantee and safeguard Ireland should insist upon the right of proportionate representation in the parliament at Westminster. It argues that Gladstone's bill would leave every act of an Irish legislature at the mercy of the veto, nominally of the crown, but really of a premier created by a British parliament, in which Ireland had no voice. Canada has escaped offensive interference owing to her remoteness from the mother country and proximity to the United States. This veto power would be exercised with impunity in Ireland [illegible] the coercive power resulting from [illegible] in the imperial house of commons. The Sun, in conclusion says:

> A British premier [illegible] will never ask it to the [illegible] [illegible] the power [illegible] British [illegible] Irish friend of Ireland [illegible] Irish [illegible] [illegible] An Irish American [illegible] of New Jersey in 1787 [illegible] something by foregoing [illegible] from New York, but had [illegible] not consent [illegible] to forego it a Union would have been impossible.

A California slugger once described himself as the "Tarantula of Calaveras county, the warhorse of the hills," and Henry Watterson once described an opponent as "the crested jayhawk of the jungles, the she bear of the Sierras, who went about yelling, "Don't you see my tusks, don't you hear me roar, I am a water spout, a hurricane." His description would hardly fit the oratorical sluggers of the "ring and ring" and "arm in arm party" quite so well as Watterson's reply: "No, we don't think you are a hurricane or a waterspout at all, you're nothing but a cross between a mud puddle and a tempest in a teapot." "A cross between Jack Sheppard and Humpty Dumpty," a burglar and a buffoon, was the bitter description once given of Oakey Hall, mayor of New York, under the Tweed ring. How would that do?

Already the enterprising papers are beginning to make cuts of Mrs. Winslow, of soothing syrup fame, of Mrs. Pinkham, of the justly celebrated vegetable compound, and of other ladies well and favorably known to the American public, do duty as portraits of Mrs. Folsom, whom the president, it is now said, is to marry. All the papers have these cuts, while only a few had portraits of young and beautiful actresses that could be passed off as pictures of Miss Folsom.

A natural soda lake has been discovered in the southeastern part of Oregon. Now if the proprietors and boomers of that soda lake will only bestir themselves and discover a lake of brandy, the legislature will doubtless take measures at once to move the capital out there.

Hon. W. Lair Hill writes to a friend in this city that the first edition of his code which was ready for distribution was not destroyed in the Bancroft fire, but that it was "badly waterlogged." This is somewhat indefinite but it indicates at least that the "copy" is safe.

IN BEHALF OF JUDGE WALDO

PORTLAND May [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In your issue of this morning your correspondent "Taxpayer" repeats a stale and unfounded [illegible] that Judge Waldo is a man of narrow [illegible] made by [illegible] The same charge is so often made by [illegible] when they have lost a case and can offer no plausible objection to the opinion of the judge [illegible] that there is danger of such insinuations being accepted as true without due consideration.

So far is Judge Waldo from a just imputation of narrowness that, on the contrary there is no safer [illegible] about him. He is possessed of that rare [illegible] of mind and breadth of view important in a [illegible] which enables him to look out over and beyond the circle of personal interest, popular clamor and the interests of friends by which we are all surrounded, and clearly discern upon the broad [illegible] of correct legal principles the law of the case, and he has the moral courage to unhesitatingly apply the same and rest his conclusions upon [illegible] never failing foundation of law and justice. [illegible] qualities have already won for him with the [illegible] of this state a universal reputation for honesty and fair dealing. On him they feel they can with safety rely and the recognition of his [illegible] is sure to follow.

"Taxpayer" also intimates that he does not expeditiously discharge his duties. Judge E. B. W[illegible], who for four years occupied a seat by the side of Judge Waldo on the bench and who is probably better qualified than any other layman to speak on the subject, accords him credit for having done [illegible] share of the work of the court and for extraordinary diligence and most pains-taking [illegible] labor not only in the careful examination of the cases assigned him, but also in assisting his associates in their labors and beyond a doubt he is entitled to that credit. Consideration of the [illegible] by him as also by other members of the court must necessarily delay the publication of opinions. Yet those opinions are not likely to receive too much consideration and it has been thought that some of those published bear evidence of haste.

It is not expedition but accuracy that is generally of the most importance in a court of last resort.

THE PROHIBITION NOMINEE FOR TREASURER

SALEM, Or., May 18, 188[illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The necessity of printing tickets for the prohibition party in the distant counties where there is but little organization made it indispensable [illegible] the vacancy on the ticket for state treasurer filled at once last week. Also the fact that Eastern Oregon had no representative on the ticket—a fact used to prejudice voters against the party—led me to correspond with the Eastern Oregon members of the state central committee to secure a candidate for the position. They responded by sending the name of John Long of Grant county, which was inserted on the ticket immediately, the same being ratified by members of the central committee and leaders of the party interviewed. It seems that Hon. G. W. Dimick was urged to secure a candidate for the position and finally prevailed upon Mr. J. H. Lambert, a most estimable gentleman, to accept. Mr. Lambert had refused the nomination at the state convention and now only consented to fill the blank. However, the tickets for several counties had already been printed, and Mr. Long stands as the nominee. I trust this explanation is entirely satisfactory to all and trust [illegible] the awakening interest from all sections [illegible] prohibition party will result in a vote next [illegible] that will astonish the old parties.

IN BEHALF OF JUDGE WALDO

PORTLAND May 20

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your issue of this morning your correspondent "Taxpayer" repeats a stale and unfounded insinuation that Judge Waldo is a man of narrow views. The same charge is so often made by attorneys when they have lost a case and can offer no plausible objection to the opinion of the judge making it, that there is danger of such insinuations being accepted as true without due consideration.

To vindicate Judge Waldo from a just imputation of narrowness that, on the contrary, there is no savor of bigotry about him. He is possessed of that rare grasp of mind and breadth of view important in a judge, which enables him to look out over and beyond the circle of personal interest, popular clamor and the interests of friends by which we are all surrounded and clearly discern upon the broad basis of correct legal principles the law of the case, and he has the moral courage to unhesitatingly apply the same and rest his conclusions upon the never failing foundation of law and justice. These qualities have already won for him with the business men of this state a universal reputation for honesty and fair dealing. On him they feel they can safely rely and the recognition of his worth is sure to follow.

"Taxpayer" also intimates that he does not expeditiously discharge his duties. Judge E B Watson, who for four years occupied a seat by the side of Judge Waldo on the bench, and who is probably better qualified than any other layman to speak on this subject, accords him credit for having done a full share of the work of the court and for extraordinary diligence and most painstaking and arduous labor not only in the careful examination of the cases assigned him, but also in assisting his associates in their labors, and beyond a doubt he is entitled to that credit. Consideration of the cases by him as also by other members of the court must necessarily delay the publication of opinions. Yet those opinions are not likely to receive too much consideration and it has been thought that some of those published bear evidence of haste.

Not expedition but accuracy that is generally of the most importance in a court of last resort.

PROHIBITION NOMINEE FOR TREASURER.

SALEM Or May 18 1886

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The necessity of printing tickets for the prohibition party in the distant counties where there is little organization made it indispensable to fill the vacancy on the ticket for state treasurer at once last week. Also the fact that Eastern Oregon had no representative on the ticket—a fact which prejudices voters against the party—led me to correspond with the Eastern Oregon members of the state central committee to secure a candidate for the position. They responded by sending the name of John Long of Grant county which I placed on the ticket immediately the same being ratified by members of the central committee and leaders of the party interviewed. It seems that Hon G W Dimick was urged to secure a candidate for the position and finally prevailed upon Mr I H Lambert, a most estimable gentleman, to run. Mr Lambert had refused the nomination at the state convention and now only consented to run to fill the blank. However, the tickets for several counties had already been printed, and Mr Long stands as the nominee. I trust this explanation is entirely satisfactory to all and trust that the awakening interest from all sections in the prohibition party will result in a vote next June that will astonish the old parties.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

PREMATURE CRITICISM —A religious subscriber writes "The excursion seems to be having a boom at present, but it must strike a thoughtful observer as decidedly out of place that so respectable and influential society as Taylor street M E church should openly and through so far reaching a medium as THE OREGONIAN advertise a Sunday excursion to the seaside. Perhaps our good friends only forgot that the 4th of July came on that day, and did not purposely prepare a scheme so full of pleasure and wickedness. No doubt the managers intend to run the boat on the day which is generally observed as the national holiday, either Saturday the 3d or Monday the 5th of July. It is more than six weeks yet till the day comes and the motive in making the announcement this early is to prevent other churches from jumping their claim to the day and place. This information is really an office secret for those who get up church and Sunday school excursions are [illegible]. [illegible] decided [illegible] destination [illegible] committee makes a brief [illegible] immediately and that is a notice to other Sunday schools and churches to [illegible] the other day. It is [illegible] society which gets its preliminary announcement published first is by [illegible] entitled to the day. Of course all [illegible] made in THE OREGONIAN [illegible] excursion [illegible] travels anywhere else or gives a concert or festival or develops [illegible] THE OREGONIAN.

COMING EVENTS FOR CATTLEMEN —The news in regard to drouth in Texas and neighboring state and the consequent [illegible] of cattle there, coupled with the vast purchases of cattle made in this section by Eastern buyers, has created quite a fever of excitement among cattlemen here. Said one drover to an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday: There is not going to be a fat steer in Texas, New Mexico, Southern Colorado or Southern Kansas this season. Wyoming, Dakota and Montana will furnish the only supplies of range cattle for the Eastern markets. Beef is going to be scarce and there will be a big demand for cattle. From this it would seem advisable for farmers and dairymen to raise as many calves as possible. The starting up of creameries is, however, going to operate against this as where there is a good sale for milk it will not pay to keep calves long. They could, however, be fed on skim milk, but just how long they could live on it after it had gone through a separator remains to be seen. Every farmer's boy should raise a calf and help out the cattle supply.

ABOUT A BABY —Yesterday afternoon Mrs Gates put in an appearance at Justice Davis's court and got out a warrant for the arrest of Joe Richardson, an Albina livery stable keeper, and Mr Ford, a laundryman of the same place. It was shortly afterwards served by Constable Hurley, and the men taken into custody and afterwards released on bonds. The cause of all the trouble as the story goes is about as follows: Mr Gates and his wife separated and the husband left his young child with the Richardsons. Wednesday Mrs Gates went to Richardson's and carried the babe away. Richardson followed in a buggy and forcibly took the youngster out of the arms of Mrs Knot, who was at the time holding it. Ford, it is claimed, was there at the time and was implicated in the transaction. He claims otherwise and says he can prove an alibi. According to the wording of the complaint Mrs Gates charges both Ford and Richardson with assault and battery on Mrs Knott. The facts in the case will be brought out during the trial, which has been set for to-day.

RARE COIN —A very rare and curious coin has lately come into the possession of Charles W Knowles of the St Charles hotel. It is a Spanish silver dollar which from the peculiar milling on the edge is known as the "worm coin" dollar. On one side is the old royal standard of Spain surrounded by the following inscription "Philip V D G Hispan et Ind Rex" (Philip Fifth by the grace of God king of Spain and India.) On the other side are two pillars surmounted by crowns between which are the east and west hemispheres. Around this side is inscribed "Utraque unum," which may be translated "Each counts one." The date is 1741 and near this is an M surmounted by an O, which may be an abbreviation for Old Missouri. The pillars are wreathed with streamers on which are inscribed "Plus Ultra" (more beyond or more where it's come from—more coming down on the rise as it were). There does not appear to be any more of these coins in this section and Mr Knowles has been offered $10 for his specimen.

SUPPLIES FOR THE PAPER MILL —Two hundred tons of jute butts, direct from Calcutta for the Columbia River paper company's mill, will arrive here on the next steamer. This is the first installment of several hundred tons of this article purchased in Calcutta by this company to be used in the manufacture of manilla paper at the mills at La Camas. It takes a large amount of paper stock of various kinds to keep a mill like this running. Beside the jute a large amount of old ropes, seines etc is used in making manilla paper while for news paper several cords of cottonwood are ground up daily and a large amount of rags. The amount of straw used for wrapping paper for grocers, butchers etc is immense. At least 2000 tons of straw will be secured for this purpose during the coming harvest. The company received a single order from Sacramento a day or two since for twenty-five tons of paper for wrapping fruit with the privilege of 100 tons if desired.

A PATTERN TO FOLLOW —During his absence across the big herring pond B I Nichol enjoyed some sport at partridge shooting and visited a grand pigeon shooting match at Monte Carlo in which the most noted shots of Europe participated. As a pointer to the sportsmen of this section who are to take part in the coming tournament here, it may be stated that the crack shot at Monte Carlo was a son of Tom Murphy, ex-collector of customs of New York, who killed fifty six live pigeons hand running at thirty three yards rise. The members of Multnomah Rod and Gun club had better not attempt to beat this record right off, but may try and work up to it by degrees as lawyers get to heaven.

ONE NOT PROHIBITIONIST —The prohibition movement must have caught on in the vicinity of Pendleton as there has been a great scarcity of prisoners from that section lately accused of selling liquor to the untutored savage. They used to be very numerous. On Tuesday however Robert Williams was brought down and yesterday he was arraigned in the U S district court and pled guilty to selling liquor to Indians. He was fined $10 and [illegible] the [illegible] therewith to pay was sent to jail.

LEAVING TO BE HOUSES —The Thompson opera company are doing excellently at Victoria. They opened in Iolanthe to $500 and the business kept up to this mark for three nights, with every prospect of continuing till the end of the engagement. The audiences were fashionable, most of the ladies and gentlemen going in full evening dress. The company go direct to Cincinnati from Victoria. It is understood that Miss Godfrey will remain in Portland for the summer.

GOOD FISHING AT THE FALLS —The salmon have begun to bite freely at Oregon City since the warm weather began. Yesterday [illegible] Charles Christie caught fifteen good sized fish and had a fine day's sport. The fish bite freely only in bright weather and it is thought so long as the present [illegible] continues the sport will [illegible].

A student of the science of mind reading has been prying into the great American minds of some of the politicians of this city, and has come to the conclusion that the nominations for councilmen at the coming election are to be as follows. Republicans—First ward F Opitz, Second ward W R Sewall, Third ward Hon R Williams. The democrats will put up: First ward R. Gerdes, Second ward Tom Varwig, but no one knows as yet who can be found to run in the Third ward.

Joe Bell and Edward A. McClure, the men injured Wednesday night by the falling rafters of the old city stable building, will both recover. Bell's back was [illegible] badly hurt but no bones were broken. He is resting comfortably. McClure is doing well. Neither of the men were hurt internally.

Holders of tickets for the excursion by the Telephone to-morrow are requested to be at the foot of Morrison street by fifteen minutes before 8. Preference will be given to such as hold tickets, but it will be necessary for them to be on hand a little before starting, to enable those in charge to do this and avoid a jam.

Early last evening Frank Allen was arrested for vagrancy and locked up in the big cell of the city jail pending his trial in the police court. The arresting officer and others of the police force say that Allen is a bunko steerer, a ace faro dealer and a worthless fellow generally. Strange to relate, there are quite a number of others of his ilk in the city.

W R Sewall left yesterday for Arlington to superintend the shipment of eight head of horses from his ranch to the Deschutes. The horses will weigh from 1200 to 1400 pounds each and are bound for St Paul and a market. The rate at which horses, cattle and sheep are emigrating from Oregon now-a-days is wonderful and should result in a great addition to the available funds of this section.

"I see that Alderman Jaehne has been sentenced nine years and ten months to Sing Sing," remarked Mrs C— to her husband as she was reading the Telegram last night. "Now I wonder why he didn't make it even ten years." "I don't know I'm sure unless it was to make some fool ask that question," calmly replied Mr C— as he closed his eyes and began pulling away vigorously at his cigar.

THE COURTS

The suit of Wetland and Woodleaf against Jos Habersadt and J H Lewis in the state circuit court was dismissed yesterday.

In the justice's court of Madison precinct yesterday morning Alushi Le Beau was adjudged guilty of assault and battery on Fabrio Rums and fined $15 and costs. As Le Beau had $20 up as bail this money was appropriated by the court for the fine and costs and Le Beau was allowed to wend his way in peace. The charge against Mr Rums of giving Le Beau a present of a black eye is to be [illegible] to-day in the police court.

A Chinaman who calls himself Ah Jick was tried and convicted in the police court yesterday of disorderly conduct. From the evidence adduced it appears that Wednesday afternoon Jick was perambulating in the vicinity of Front and Sheridan streets looking for a job of cutting grass. Some boy in the neighborhood threw rocks at him, one of them striking him on the jaw. The Chinaman accused a boy named Heitkemp as the one who fired the stone and followed him into the yard of his parents' dwelling. Here Ah Jick made a great disturbance, threatening Mrs Heitkemp and her son and frightening them to such an extent that they locked themselves up in the house and policeman Young settled the disturbance by placing the Celestial under arrest. Judge Dement, after hearing both sides of the case, fined Ah Jick $10. Young Heitkemp denies throwing the stone which did the damage.

The trial of the case of J H Fisk vs D V B Henarie and others was continued in Judge Smith's court yesterday. Early in the day the defendants closed their case and arguments were commenced with George H Williams making the opening address in behalf of the plaintiff, followed by V P Gilbert and Judge J K Kelly for the defendants. At [illegible] o'clock the court adjourned, reconvening at [illegible] P M, when [illegible] Thompson made the closing argument. The case has not yet been given to the jury.

SUNDRY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

PRINEVILLE May 11 1886

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Will you kindly answer the following questions: If a wife invest her own money in a farm and stock equally with her husband, which has been deeded in her name as well as his, is it the husband's right to control, to sell all the produce and use all the proceeds thereof without reference to her or her wishes during his lifetime? If she has any rights in the matter how can she secure them?

A WIFE

The woman has the same rights and interests in the property as her husband. If he has not honesty or decency enough to allow her to exercise her rights she has recourse in the courts and can sue him for an accounting, or a partition of the property just the same as if they were unmarried and strangers.

SENECA SMITH FOR JUDGE.

An Independent Judiciary Convention take a Hand in Politics.

They Nominate Seneca Smith for Circuit Judge, Endorse Judge E D Shattuck for Circuit and John Catlin for County Judge.

Yesterday evening a number of citizens met at the office of Ellis G Hughes and organized an independent judiciary convention. Mr Hughes was chosen chairman and F W Bingham secretary.

Mr Bingham presented the following petition:

PORTLAND Or May [illegible] 1886

Whereas two circuit court judges are to be elected at the next June election for this district of Multnomah county to serve for the next six years, and the republican and democratic conventions have nominated but one candidate each for said offices and there are many citizens who would prefer Judge Seneca Smith to continue in the office of circuit judge, which he has satisfactorily filled for the last three years, and desire to vote for him and Judge E D Shattuck to fill said judicial offices.

Now therefore we the undersigned taxpayers and citizens of Multnomah county request Judge Seneca Smith to become a candidate for the office of circuit judge of the Fourth judicial district independent of convention nomination.

We do not regard the judgeship as a political office and we ask citizens of both parties to vote with us for Judge Seneca Smith and Judge E D Shattuck for circuit judges of the Fourth Judicial district.

G W Yocum offered the following resolution:

Resolved That a committee of three be appointed to confer with the democratic and other committees to ascertain what co-operation we can secure to elect an independent candidate for circuit judge and whether said committees desire a voice in naming such candidate.

He moved its adoption.

Wm Foley seconded the motion. He desired to learn whether Seneca Smith would be acceptable to other political parties and if not to learn who would be acceptable.

Dr Saylor opposed the motion and favored making a nomination for circuit judge of the fourth judicial district at this time.

Charles Woodward, the attorney, favored the nomination of some one to run with Judge Shattuck and stated if this convention could now make a fair nomination he thought it almost certain that an independent organization of which he was a member who were ready to put out a scratch ticket would accept the candidate and put him on their ticket along with Judge Shattuck.

The motion of Yocum was tabled.

F O [illegible] moved that the convention proceed to nominate a candidate for circuit judge.

Dr Saylor offered an amendment to add "by ballot." Carried.

Yocum opposed it on the ground that he wanted some other person than Judge Smith nominated and that the convention had been called for the purpose of naming Judge Smith he had no more use for the convention. He therefore left, followed by Joseph Gaston, who was understood to be a [illegible] candidate.

W H Adams favored the candidacy of Judge Smith but thought it best to defer a nomination at this time.

The ballot resulted in the choice of Judge Smith and his nomination was made unanimous.

Upon motion of Dr Saylor the nominations of E D Shattuck for circuit judge and John Catlin for county judge were endorsed.

Mr H T Bingham called the attention of the meeting to the election law enacted in 1885 from which it appeared that in order to procure official paper from the secretary of state upon which to print tickets, and to record the ticket with the county clerk etc, it was necessary that a managing committee be appointed and made a motion to that effect. The chair appointed as such committee H T Bingham, E C Dodd and W H Saylor.

The convention then adjourned to reconvene if necessary upon call of the chairman.

FROM THE PINE VALLEY MINES.

[Correspondence of The Oregonian.]

ALLENTOWN May 1

In years gone the history of a mining camp seemed too trivial to be written but the greedy genius of a Bret Harte and the dreamy aspiration of a Joaquin Miller seized the pulse of the gold seeker at fever heat and told it out to the world. But this will be no story of romance or invention, only a simple chronicle of events as they occur. We—for [illegible] more than one—we came here to take up the golden thread of fortune hunting where we laid it down many years ago. We are—none of us—any longer young and the new mining camp [illegible] and the infancy of enterprise stare us in the face. But we are after all as much children as they, because we never grow [illegible] older by experience. As witness the transaction of yesterday. A man came to the door of our cabin and looked in. The chill rain was pouring and the wind [illegible] that mes [illegible]. With the [illegible] expression of face the [illegible] lured by [illegible] he line [illegible] distant Idaho [illegible] that morning footsore and penniless. How [illegible] I met here an old pardner who knew [illegible] there were not crop [illegible] a few days away [illegible] was about to start there for [illegible] who was [illegible] to him the rate and how [illegible] our friend wanted [illegible] tools, little bacon and sugar possibly [illegible] and he would divide the location with [illegible] should then grub stake him. The writer [illegible] these lines seized with [illegible] of the mining camps, began to shake his head. "[illegible]," said another of our party. "He must be an honest fellow to come seeking you on such a stormy day, better outfit him." "Yes," at length replied the idiotic writer, "I shall never expect to see you again, but you will go to swell the army who have gone before." And so there was a donation party held on the spot of frying pans and coffee pots and groceries. Our pick was surrendered. He took our shovel without "say ng" by your leave, or "[illegible] your soul" or any other politeness. Three dollars in cash was given him to pay for tobacco and sharpening tools, and with these and a hearty "God bless you" from the homes mine he departed. We heard from our prospector early this morning. Within half an hour from the time he left our doors he adjourned to the upper town, sold our groceries, pawned our tools, blew in the proceeds and after painting the town red started down the canyon. Peace be with him. He did not disappoint me.

The trees around about the town are being rapidly cut down and there is already quite a clearing here. A grand old fir tree has just fallen with a roar that echoed down the canyon, another victim to the rapacity of man. Its fall had the grandeur of its life about it—no faltering steps, no decline, but like a hero who has made his life sublime it fell in the full glory of its strength and beauty. Wherefore such preparation for a long life, the tenacious root and hold for vast space away from its trunk, the cuticle fit panoply against frost or steel. But the primary law fulfilled nature seems not to deal in special providences, and the pigmy and the Titan start with equal chances.

But your readers will look to your editorial columns for reflections and these letters from the Pine Valley mines should contain only facts. There are for this week but few facts to chronicle. The snow has melted and drifted away from the "Robert Emmet" and the "Red Jacket," but at the "Companion Union" there is still a foot or more, and the basin holds at least five feet. If the hot sun of to-day shall continue for ten days, however, most of the snow will have gone. The towns grow apace. There has been an increase of twenty seven buildings in the last fortnight and to-day's census shows forty eight in Cornucopia, thirty two on the divide between Cornucopia and Allentown and eighty nine in Allentown. The people who are arriving every day are mostly prospectors, or men seeking work or persons intending to start shops and stores, restaurants and lodging houses. Possibly also among these wagons from Idaho or elsewhere, with their sleek, strong horses and well appointed camp equipages, there may be capitalists in disguise, and mining experts who do not proclaim their errands but who will quietly await the melting of the snows and be the first to thrust a sickle into the golden harvest.

Do you in Portland intend to let Salt Lake and Omaha and Chicago take the trade and the opportunities of this country from you? They will do it if you do not wake up. Already "somebody" is building a wagon road here from Huntington. It will be completed as soon as will the road for which the state of Oregon gave $1,000. And other things being equal the community whose citizens own the mines will control the trade of the mines. Miners as well as farmers buy where they sell. The mining company which pays out $50,000 for labor and supplies will naturally throw the trade engendered by its disbursements into the hands of those who furnish the capital for investment. Portland has either to surrender this country utterly or else make some attempt at reciprocity in dealing with it. Not much is required to hold it, but that which is wanted is wanted imperatively and promptly. Let twenty of your business men put in $500 each as a starter. If these are able to find in Portland one man who knows something about mining and who is not a thief, send him up here fully empowered. If they can not find such a man, let them import him from elsewhere. Let him take working bonds say for six months on two of the most promising mines and expend $2000 on each in sinking. If he shall demonstrate thereby, as is most unlikely, that the mines do not go down in fact and that the camp is a failure, then the twenty gentlemen will have lost their 500 each and it will give one or two of them [illegible] less next winter or not purchase the diamond ornaments they intended for their wives, or [illegible] ladies who are not their wives as the case may be. But if this small outlay shall determine as I think it will that this is a great mining field there will be a road [illegible] for others to travel and the stream of trade directed along that road will do for Portland what Bodie did for San Francisco.

PIONEER.

THE EAST SIDE

At 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning S G Robinson, the well known contractor, departed this life, after a long and painful illness. Some weeks ago the deceased being in a helpless condition was conveyed to St Vincent's hospital, at which institution he died. Mr Robinson was quite extensively known in East Portland, and his many old friends will regret to learn of his untimely fate. Deceased leaves a wife, who is at present living in Milwaukie, Clackamas county.

PROHIBITION MEETING

This evening at Neppach's hall Prof C M Miller, prohibition candidate for congress, will address the citizens of East Portland upon the issues of the day. Prof Miller is said to be a trenchant speaker who delights to metaphorically chew the two old parties into mincemeat. Everybody invited.

FAIRVIEW STORE ROBBED

During Monday night or early Tuesday morning last burglars effected an entrance through the front door of Mr Lewis's store at Fairview, twelve miles east of East Portland, and stole $20 from the cash drawer and goods to the amount of over $200. Mr Lewis, the proprietor, was asleep in the rear of the store building at the time but being aged and very deaf was not awakened by the intruders. Up to Wednesday evening no clue had been found to the perpetrators.

THE REPUBLICAN RATIFICATION TO-NIGHT

The ratification meeting to be given this evening by the republicans of East Portland promises to be a success in every sense of the word. The speakers from Portland, Hon M C George, Hon Geo H Williams and Henry E McGinn, will be met at the Stark street ferry landing by a deputation of the East Portland republican club and the Willamette band and escorted to Armory hall, where the exercises will take place. Republicans from country and city are invited to be present. A large turnout is expected from Portland. Ladies are especially invited, a number of front seats being reserved for the fair sex and their escorts.

ALBINA SCHOOL EXERCISES

The closing exercises of the Albina school for the nine months' term just closed will take place this evening at the public school building. A programme of more than ordinary interest has been prepared. The first part will consist of miscellaneous exercises—singing, recitations, etc., and include the laughable dialogue entitled "The Rumpus in John Jones's Shoemaker's Shop," in which Henry Wilson, Katie Barnes and Allie Young will participate. Part second will consist of a piano duet, recitation, declamation, reading and songs. In these exercises the following children will take part: Sadie Bogart, Mattie Culbert, Margaret Watkins, Jean Cline, Nellie McKenna, Minnie Wittenberg, Johanna Olsen, Katie McKenna. Others will also participate.

Following part second will come the cantata "The Crown of Reward." The following girls will appear in the cantata: May Wiman, Jennie Davis, Stella Berry, Lottie Fink, Annie Ranzie and Ellen Lankin.

An instrumental [illegible] and military movements by a corps of boys will follow the above.

The Colloquy of Nations and a grand tableau will conclude the evening's entertainment with the following cast:

Liberty	Sadie Bogart
China	Mabel [illegible]
India	Katie Barnes
Russia	Mattie Culbert
Germany	Katie Gr[illegible]
Scotland	Little Harte
Spain	Marietta Meussdorfer
France	[illegible] Walter
Ireland	Annie Mun[illegible]
Italy	Della Nee
America	Minnie Wittenberg

Miss Maude Willard will preside at the piano.

BOTANICAL, PISCATORIAL AND [illegible]

To-morrow morning about twenty-eight scholars of the high school of district No 1, accompanied by Prof and Mrs Wetzell, will go on a botanical and piscatorial excursion to Oregon City. The little steam yacht Uncle Richard having been engaged for the occasion. The pupils will be armed with text-books, fishing tackle, lunch baskets etc, and will depart with the full expectation of having a day of instruction, amusement and general jollity.

NOTES

Work on the new steamboat now in course of construction at the foot of M street progresses rapidly. The craft will be ready to turn over to the Oregon Pacific railroad company on the 15th prox.

S H Fields and son Charles have purchased a block of land from J S Newell of Mt Tabor, upon which the store of Strubble & Sigler, a hotel and a dwelling house are located. The purchasers contemplate making extensive improvements.

A splendid crayon portrait of Prof I W Pratt of Portland was presented to Washington lodge A F & A M at their meeting on Wednesday evening, Prof E S Talbock making the donation speech. Prof Pratt had the honor of being the first W M of the lodge mentioned.

Mr I B Tilton, superintendent of the Standard box factory in East Portland, will leave next Sunday morning for Astoria, where he will take charge of the Clatsop box factory.

A select party of ladies and gentlemen, members of Joseph Floyd's class last evening went on a surprise excursion to Vancouver, where it was their intention to walk in upon Rev Mr Phillips of the M E church and take him totally unawares. A most joyous time was undoubtedly experienced by all participants.

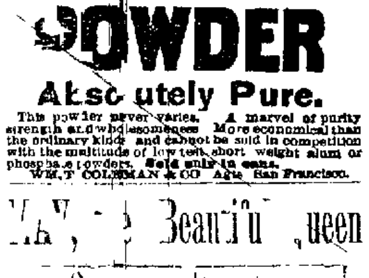
May, the Beautiful Queen



Of months, is here. In her train she brings her flowers, her bright sunshine, her balmy breezes —in short, all the charms with which love-sick Nature has endowed her. Poets find in her presence as much to rave about as heretofore, and will doubtless make quite as good a use of their opportunities.

To PRACTICAL folks, however, her coming suggests other things, that, if less poetical than flowers and moonlight, are certainly quite as important.

To the careful mother she suggests that the clothes the little ones have worn during the wet, rainy season are out of place for warm weather and sunshine.

To the lords of creation it means new suits and new headwear.

To all it means a change of underwear, and additions to their supply of both underwear and hosiery.

To put it in a nutshell, May brings with her seasonable blessings, a plentiful supply of wants.

FREIGHTS Arrivals for a week were the Edward Kidder and River Nith seeking and Nith with prior charter The Shalimar with flour and Frances Fisher and Stirlingshire with wheat went to sea. The Nith is understood to be intended for a salmon berth but her exact business cannot now be stated If there has been any business on spot it has not been [illegible] The Glenrosa and River Nith have both [illegible] the credit of being engaged but they are stated to be open by consignees In the absence of business a quotation is not possible but the market has certainly undergone no particular change Nominally iron is 40s, but this is rather above the views of shippers To arrive the Cambrian has accepted wheat or salmon loading. Several vessels are near at hand some of them under charter The wheat movement being slow exporters are backward about assuming new contracts.

WHEAT—Receipts for the week were 45 tons valley and 3[illegible] tons Walla Walla against [illegible] and 1106 tons the same week last year and [illegible] and [illegible] tons the preceding week this year The increased receipt of [illegible] this [illegible] week this year was 203 tons valley and [illegible] Walla Walla Arrivals then have been on a very liberal scale and especially so when it is considered how small a business has been done A greater part of arrivals are results of buying one to three weeks ago in the interior shippers having taken considerable in the eastern section For the week under review offerings have probably increased and certainly there has been more difficulty experienced in selling both here and at home At the close $1 15 and $1 2[illegible] are best bids and full quotations for the two grades Walla Walla offered was refused a bid by some shippers and $1 1[illegible] was the extreme offered Valley cannot be quoted above $1 2[illegible] for this is best offer even for spot parcels and it is a question whether even a small fraction more could be had by the most persevering seller The market is easy although it is thought prices have reached a level where they will remain for a time without there comes a marked change in reports from abroad Even at these prices the shipping business fails to be attractive for cargoes for shipment are in great neglect Present needs here can only be described as nothing. Six vessels only are in loading berth and some of these are partly filled. There is plenty of grain at hand for the others In the river there are eight disposable vessels with absolutely no disposition on the part of shippers to secure them To arrive soon the amount of tonnage chartered for wheat is considered insignificant Advices for a week are but a repetition of those of the preceding week the foreign markets being without change and the American markets generally lower In the last day or two Chicago and New York advanced slightly but from no substantial reasons

THE CAMPAIGN OF THE SHIRT

PORTLAND, May 20 1886

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I, as well as hundreds of others, were pained on reading in THE OREGONIAN the utterances of Col Cornelius the republican candidate for governor on the Chinese question The people of Oregon have a right to look for something higher and better in the man who is to preside over state affairs than the low sentiments and motives that prompt the ignorant foreign agitator to his midnight raids on inoffensive Chinamen Only think of it! Mr Cornelius claims my support for the governorship of Oregon because he does not let the Chinamen wash his shirts and because he is in favor of starving these poor fellows to death or compel them to leave the country—a class of people whom our government has invited to these shores in the same way that it has the most favored sons of Europe—a class of people whom our government is bound in honor and law to call out its entire army to defend and protect [illegible] private citizen of the United States, [illegible] bound to see that they are kindly and humanely treated to say nothing of the great Christian principle that should dwell in every man's heart to prompt him to duty—whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so them! But what does he propose? He proposes to starve these people out by not extending to them the ordinary privileges he claims for himself a privilege and right that all of God's creatures possess of buying [illegible] labor and he attempts to commit [illegible] by declaring it on the stump to be one of the issues and principles of the republican party! He has an individual right [illegible] just what labor he likes best or not [illegible] he has a right to get his shirts washed by whom he pleases or to not get them washed at all but he has no right to make a party issue of it and ask me to indorse it He has no right to declare a boycott on the stump for me against a considerable class of our tax paying [illegible] a class of people which if he is elected he is bound to defend with the entire military force of the state if necessary And why does he declare this boycott It is because they have no votes Why does he not denounce the insults and murderous acts of the foreign element of the United States an element that is shaking the very foundation of our government to-day with its communistic ideas It is because they have votes [illegible] I say that are unworthy [illegible] Why [illegible] Mr Pennoyer the other illustrious candidate for governor either [illegible] the same views Why did he [illegible] head a [illegible] in violation [illegible] of [illegible] and honor take possession of [illegible] was [illegible] Why did John M[illegible] of Oregon City preside over a meeting which deliberately laid plans to destroy property to outrage the honor of the state and the nation by forcibly driving the Chinamen from their homes Why did their agents in carrying out these plans and under cover of the night drive these poor fellows from their homes and destroy their property and otherwise maltreat them and say why this was done It was because they had no votes It has been but a few short weeks since hundreds of Portland's best citizens were under arms, exposing themselves to pitiless storms risking their health and lives to defend the good name of our town the honor of our state and nation against [illegible] who were striving to carry out the principles of [illegible] candidates for the governorship They as Mr Cornelius was [illegible] to this scene of lawlessness How do we know He favors a plan infinitely more cruel and inhuman and lawless than putting them on board of ships and sending them off—that of starving them The Chinamen that are here have just as good a right here as the best Englishman Irishman or German that ever crossed the ocean Our government can with all its power send these people away legally They have been invited here on the same basis that the German and Irishman have Under these circumstances and with all our broad rich unoccupied acres at his command it is contemptibly mean cowardly and selfish for one foreigner to array himself against another and say he cannot inhabit this land If Mr Cornelius and Mr Pennoyer have intelligence enough to act as chief executive of Oregon they know what I say is true They strive for the highest place in the gift of the people of Oregon and at the same time set at naught and defy one of the most sacred laws of the nation

No man is fit to sit in the gubernatorial chair who publicly declares—and asks to be elected on that issue—his hostility on account of race to a large portion of those whom he expects to govern The man who fills that position should have a heart in him capable of reaching out to all classes and conditions of men I shall not vote for Mr Cornelius or any other man on the ticket who is so un-American as to entertain such views I have been a republican ever since there was a republican party and it has been the grandest party that ever existed because it was a party of principles It came into power on a grand wave of progress in opposition to wrong It struck the shackles from the feet of four millions of men it cemented the Union with the blood of hundreds of thousands of its best men it has instituted all the great reforms that have given our nation such a high position among nations Its financial policy has been sound It has known no race no color no nationality It has been the friend of the oppressed and down-trodden It has measured men only by their worth and not by their color It has been a grand thing to belong to such a party But whenever it prostitutes itself to oppression and wrong and asks me to put my foot on the necks of a defenseless race as is the case on this coast I raise my voice in protest and so will hundreds of others The party may be temporarily defeated because its standard bearer gets down into the wallow in order to be as low as his opponents to catch votes but there is an element in the party that will rejuvenate it after it has been humiliated by defeat and it will again come into power with an augmented zeal for the right and it will institute reforms that will go far in establishing peace on earth and good will to men I write these lines in sorrow and not because I have any personal grievance or wrongs to avenge I cannot endorse with my vote a wrong that I am willing to risk my life I need be to suppress One of the darkest clouds in our political sky is the disposition shown to pander to and court that lawless spirit that has flown in upon us from foreign shores. We can better withstand a combined attack of all European nations in open fight than we can withstand that subtle deadly influence against law and order which is the outgrowth of a degraded humanity that has been brayed in the mortar of vice ignorance, and the oppressions of foreign despotisms

COLLECTOR BEECHER AND THAT $300

TACOMA W T, May 1[illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Representations which are absolutely false having been made by Capt. Beecher in relation to the $300 money transaction between himself and Mr Kepler in which he seeks to smirch me and cover his own dishonesty I desire to give emphatic denial to his lying allegations

It appears that Mr Kepler a resident of Orcas Island some time since gave Beecher then on the steamer Evangel running the island route $300 with which to procure him certain money orders, that Beecher having appropriated this trust to his own use, endeavored to shield himself by a fabrication claiming that he gave me the money (I being at that time postal clerk on the steamer) with instructions to procure the orders that I told him later they had been forwarded but after my removal from that line he learned that the orders had not been sent.

Capt. Beecher never gave me the $300 nor any sum whatever wherewith to purchase money orders for himself or anyone else and never made any such request of me

The affidavit he is claimed to have made that he delivered the money to me and instructed me to forward the money orders in accordance with Mr Kepler's instructions is utterly false In fact, the affidavits I understand he has made can be proven untrue, [illegible] to bolster his chances for confirmation as collector of customs at Port Townsend and prove himself an honorable man, and are flatly contradicted by the sworn statements of those who know and are parties to the circumstances and who are respected and honored citizens

I have never been transferred or removed by the postal authorities on complaint of Beecher on account of immoral conduct or otherwise notwithstanding Hon Collector Herbert Foote [illegible] Beecher has said it On the contrary I have been in the postal service continuously either permanent [illegible] or acting, and am at the present time in the service on the Port Townsend and Tacoma route. For a time at my own request I was transferred to the Wallula and Portland route because on the Evangel the [illegible] relations between the amiable and efficient [illegible] of and myself were not the most pleasant

During this transfer Beecher certainly knew where I was [illegible] I have found out in a mo[illegible] at the Port Townsend postoffice where he frequently [illegible] the attraction on the [illegible] route [illegible] all the while and it [illegible] to hunt for me

[illegible] that Mr Kepler has made affidavit in addition to other part[illegible] that Beecher did not [illegible] for searching for me and it is probable no search was made

Mr Kepler telegraphed me concerning the explanation and accusation [illegible] Beecher made when pressed [illegible] responded denying it and I [illegible] that Mr Kepler confronted him with my telegram in the presence of witnesses

As a matter of fact Beecher had nothing to do with my transfer to Portland and [illegible] by the proper postal authorities [illegible] why should he so testify

[illegible] standing in society and general con[illegible] to all with whom I have [illegible] people of the communities [illegible] have been and [illegible] from prominent per[illegible] and elsewhere as [illegible] character Why has not Beecher [illegible] I have been within [illegible] as I am only present [illegible] and each trip [illegible] Any such charges I [illegible] and wilfully false [illegible]

[illegible] Beecher to blacken the reputation of [illegible] person [illegible] that I could say [illegible] help to confirm Capt [illegible] necessary [illegible] everything will be [illegible]

Pomeroy Times The new barbed wire fence law passed last winter, does not seem to give general satisfaction among the farmers In various places meetings have been held to talk the matter over and endeavor to find anything really meritorious in the law Hon J Grutcher of Whitman, the father of the bill and a practical farmer claimed it was in the interest of every one in Eastern Washington to pass the law

NOTES FROM OKANAGAN

OKANAGAN, W T, May 1[illegible]

Since my last letter parties from Met-How have exhibited some fine silver quartz, and the indications are that there will be a mining excitement there as soon as the reservation is open for settlement.

The report came yesterday that the Moses reservation was open for settlement, and men were riding all night to locate land There is some fine land on the Okanagan and on the Met-How It can be reached from Ellensburg via Moses Coulee ferry and the new cable ferry at Foster creek, near the mouth of the Okanagan

Travel continues to Granite creek mines, but the season is so backward that little can yet be done there But undoubtedly the whole country from the Columbia river to the British boundary is a gold bearing country J. W D
